

Louis de Schorlemer

Louis de Schorlemer, a Luxembourg national who was born in 1972, holds a Master's degree in Global Marketing Communication and Advertising (MA) from Emerson College (Boston) and a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from the Vlerick Business School in Belgium.

From 2003 to 2010, Louis de Schorlemer was Director of Communications, Europe, at Gallup, a business consultancy, before he joined the Imerys mining company where he took on the role of Head of Communication in the Paper & Packaging division.

He served as the Corporate Communications Manager for Europe, the Middle East and Africa at Cargill from 2013 to 2016. As Head of Corporate Communications at the Sibelco Group, he ran the internal and external communication department from 2016 to 2017 before he founded Corporate Diplomat in Brussels, a business consultancy where he is still the Managing Director. In this role, he supports clients with their strategic communication during merger and acquisition transactions and in articulating corporate culture. He is a lecturer in Corporate Communications at the Luxembourg School of Business.

He has been on the Lift Me Off Advisory Board, a British-Luxembourg company that enables in-orbit satellite servicing, since 2019. He served as a non-executive director at Gault & Millau in Paris, France, from 2016 to 2018. He is a board member of the European Association of Communication Directors and the Association Luxembourgeoise du Diabète.

Louis de Schorlemer was elected to the Villeroy & Boch AG Supervisory Board in 2018.